Red China Asks Resumption Of Peace Talks

Gen. Taylor Issues 3-Point Plan for Releasing Prisoners

TOKYO (AP)—Red China called for resumption of Korean peace talks tonight as the United Nations Command pressed plans to release 22,000 anti-Communist war prisoners and warned any Communist interference "might start the shooting war all over again."

Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai, demanding that the negotiations for a formal peace conference be resumed immediately, accused the Allies of plotting to hold war prisoners forcibly.

But Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commanding the United States Army, issued a three-point program for releasing the anti-Red prisoners at 12:01 a. m. Jan. 23 and gave his warning to the Reds of the possible consequences if they interfered.

Taylor, who had conferred in Tokyo with U. N. Commander Gen. John E. Hull, also revealed an alternate plan of action if Indian guards refuse to release the prisoners Jan. 23 and a mass breakout occurs.

He said South Korean military police would assist American MPs in coordinating the movement of the prisoners if they storm out of the compound.

Taylor apparently reached this understanding with South Korean President Syngman Rhee at their recent meeting.

In other major developments on the Korean scene:

1. It was learned from a Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission source that the commission may take up next week a plan to return all prisoners to their captors instead of freeing them as civilians. This would send 21 Americans back to the Reds, unless they tell the Indian Command before Jan. 23 they want to be repatriated.

2. South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tae refused to retract a threat to "take action" against the Indians if they refuse to release the anti-Communist prisoners at the deadline. To retract, Pyun said, would be to reverse South Korean policy.

3. The South Korean National Assembly unanimously adopted a resolution to "condemn and warn" the Indians from "straying from neutrality and acting pro-Communist."

4. Informed quarters in New Delhi, India, said that although India has not reached a decision releasing the prisoners, the government probably would favor freeing them if the U. N. and Communist commands do not agree on extending the custody deadline.

5. South Korean police sources said hundreds of thousands of South Koreans would participate in anti-Indian demonstrations in Seoul and other cities Monday.

Weapons Tests in Pacific To Include 'Cheap' H-Bombs With 'More Than Hydrogen'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission's forthcoming weapons tests in the Pacific are expected to include detonation of "cheap" new H-bombs with "more than hydrogen" in them, it was learned today.

The United Press also has been told that one phase of the test series will be actual delivery of a combat H-bomb by a specially equipped B36.

The new experiments, the AEC said, will include "weapons tests of all categories." That means both A-bombs and H-bombs. The tests will be held at the Eniwetok proving ground, now enlarged to include neighboring Bikini atoll, but the AEC did not say when.

It is understood, however, that the B36 delivery test will take place in May, probably following other chapters of the operation.

President Eisenhower disclosed Dec. 8 that the United States has hydrogen weapons "in the ranges of millions of tons of TNT equivalent," and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has spoken of "a series of bombs" containing "certainly more than hydrogen."

Plan Held Up Until Reserve Forces Built Up

President Accepts Recommendations by Defense Mobilizer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today ordered universal military training plans side-tracked until the armed forces reserve program can be geared to an "age of peril."

His action virtually ruled out any possibility the administration will ask Congress this year to act on a proposed new universal military training plan—the subject of congressional controversy since it was first proposed in 1945.

The administration's stand was disclosed by Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming in releasing recommendations to the President for a top-to-bottom revision of the military reserve.

The President accepted Flemming's position that UMT should be held up until "fundamental decisions" have been made on the reserve setup.

Opposition in Congress

Flemming told the President that "we do not now have reserve forces adequately organized and trained to meet the needs of a national emergency."

The National Security Training Commission recommended to Mr. Eisenhower in December that UMT be started as soon as possible, running side-by-side with the draft. The commission's recommendations, drawn up at the request of the President, encountered immediate congressional opposition.

Under the proposed UMT plan the first 100,000 18-year-old trainees would be sent to camp not later than Jan. 1, 1955, for six months of training, away from 7-12 years in the military reserves.

While Flemming only said UMT was being held in abeyance, his 24-man committee on manpower resources for national security was more emphatic in its opposition to the program.

Agrees to Recommendations

The committee headed by Lawrence A. Appleby, president of the American Management Association, stated that "greater national security" will be found "in avoiding a dual system." It said the availability of manpower for both the draft and UMT is uncertain.

The President, in a short letter to Flemming, agreed "in general" with his "analysis of the pressing need to strengthen our reserve forces" and with his "recommendations as to the best way in which to approach the problem."

Mr. Eisenhower also directed Flemming to draw up a paper by April 1, for presentation to the National Security Council, on how the reserve program should be revamped.

Night Policeman Thwarts Burglary At Carrier Mills

A burglary at Carrier Mills was thwarted early today by Night Policeman Bl. Murphy, whose appearance scared away thieves who were trying to enter the Walker jewelry store.

Murphy, who gave chase to the fleeing burglars, fired two unsuccessful shots at them.

Only Monday night of this week the Harris drug store in Carrier Mills was burglarized of about $1,200 in merchandise, chiefly watches and jewelry, and Murphy fired one shot that time at a fleeing burglar.

However, this time the attempt was unsuccessful. Two men, he said, were trying to open the rear door around 5 a. m. and there were crowbar marks on the door to show that an effort was being made to break into the place.

Murphy told county officers that the two men ran and departed in an auto. He gave chase in his truck and fired two shots at the fleeing vehicle.

The Walker jewelry store is operated by Leighman Walker in the I. O. O. F. building.

Mrs. Jess Fox, 52, Of Eldorado Dies

Mrs. Pearl Fox, 52, died at 8:43 p. m. Thursday in the Christian Welfare hospital in East St. Louis. The body will arrive late this afternoon in Eldorado, where she was a resident, to lie in state at the Eldorado funeral home until funeral time which will be tomorrow at 3:30.

The funeral will be held in the funeral chapel with the Rev. Floyd Wesley officiating. Burial will be in the Lindale Memorial Gardens. She is survived by her husband, Jess; one daughter, Mrs. Wilma Jean Reed, East St. Louis; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Smith, Fairfield, and Mrs. Blanche Gholson, Eldorado; one brother, Earl Rhine, Detroit, Mich., and one grandchild.

City Council Rules Against Petition

Says Group Can Request Vote On Bond Issue

Att'y Rumsey Says Petition Must Be Filed by Jan. 21

Upon the advice of legal counsel, the Harrisburg city council yesterday afternoon ruled against a petition requesting that any major improvement in the Harrisburg water system be submitted to a vote, but informed the petitioners that they had a perfect right to file a proper petition directed at the ordinance which calls for a $200,000 bond issue.

The petition was presented to the council in the fall, after the city had raised its water rates for a Lake Harrisburg. The ordinance calling for a $200,000 bond issue to finance the construction of the lake including the purchase of lands and other improvements, was passed Dec. 23 and published Dec. 26.

The council acted upon the advice of Atty. D. F. Rumsey, who was present for City Attorney Scorial Thompson, who is ill. He said the petition, which contained more than 800 names, was not sufficient, that the statutes are clear on what shall be done.

"If, after an ordinance is passed, the citizens desire a referendum on the matter, they have 21 days in which to file a petition asking for a vote," he said. Twenty-one days would put the last filing date Jan. 16.

"The petition we have here now cannot have any effect on the bond ordinance," Rumsey said. "I recommend that the council deny the petition on file. If another is submitted properly directed at the ordinance, the council will have to call for a referendum on it."

Atty. Lester R. Lightfoot was present for the petitioners and he said he believed the council could go ahead and call for a referendum on the request of more than 800 signers.

He also said that in his opinion, it was mandatory that a city referendum be held on the bond issue.

Claims Options Too High
Rumsey said it was his opinion that the mandatory referendum applied to bonds where there was a tax spread to finance them, but that this was an issue to be paid through water revenue. He also said he didn't think the council has the authority to go along on the present petition.

James Ford was present and said he understood that the prices on the options were too high, that that was why he was for a vote on the matter.

Mayor Ralph Horning Jr. admitted that some of the prices might be pretty high, but said that when a city goes out to buy something it needs from somebody who doesn't care about selling, you have to pay more, in lots of cases.

He also said that the options will start expiring in March and that it will be hard to get renewals on some of them. That, he

Nixon's Famous Cocker Gives Birth to 5 Pups

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Checkers," Vice President Richard M. Nixon's famous pedigree cocker spaniel, has given birth to five black and white pups. The father is unknown.

Checkers became prominent when Nixon mentioned her in a nationwide television broadcast during the 1952 election campaign. But the publicity did not go to her head. She just wanted to settle down and have a family.

The proud mother and offspring, curled up in the Nixon basement near the furnace, are doing nicely.

The pups' arrival early Thursday came almost as a birthday present for Nixon, who was 41 today. But neither he nor his wife, Pat, had exactly expected such a gift.

U. S., Britain Assure French On NATO Future

PARIS (AP)—The United States and Great Britain have agreed to give France formal declarations that they will not consider the North Atlantic treaty ended after its minimum 20 years duration, informed sources revealed today.

The Anglo-American decision is aimed at helping to make the European Defense Community treaty more appealing to the French National Assembly when a final vote is taken.

The Western decision will not be made public until the deputies hold their final debate after the four-power Berlin conference with the Russians starting Jan. 25. But the Americans and British already have communicated the assurance to French officials.

The French have long complained of the seeming disparity between the duration of the EDC treaty and that of the NATO pact. The European army nations would be linked to each other for at least 50 years according to the treaty terms. The NATO pact calls for only a minimum of 20 years.

But sources here said that U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles argued last month both at the Big Three conference at Bermuda and the NATO Council meeting in Paris that there was no need to define the span of the NATO alliance since, in his view, it was unlimited.

Dulles recalled that he had negotiated the Japanese peace treaty, the Korean pact and the ANZUS Pacific treaty, all of which had no duration clauses.

Wilson Sees More Cuts in Army Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson believes that defense spending can be cut an additional billion-dollars by July 1.

This would bring military outlays for this fiscal year below 42 billion-dollars, compared with the Defense Department's estimate last spring of $43,200,000,000. Defense spending in the new fiscal year starting July 1 is expected to run between 38-billion-dollars and 39-billion-dollars.

Wilson also indicated at a press conference Friday that the Army may be cut below the 20 divisions presently planned for the 1954 fiscal year which begins July 1. He said the matter "isn't settled yet."

Up to now it had been considered definite that the Army would keep its 20-division strength thru fiscal 1955, with reductions to come in later years.

Official comment has heretofore centered on cutting so-called supporting forces and desk jobs. But trimming combat strength would be in line with the GOP administration's long range aim of placing chief reliance on air power and atomic weapons.

Rely on Air Power, A-Weapons
The Army has already been ordered to cut from 1.2 million soldiers to fewer than 1,200,000 by mid-1955.

Wilson outlined the administration's aim of concentrating "strategic reserve" of military force in the United States, placing "more reliance on airpower" and shifting emphasis from manpower to atomic and other new weapons "where real military strength comes from." He described the forthcoming withdrawal of two Army divisions from Korea as a part of the plan to bolster home-based reserves.

Reporters pressed him for information on whether the new military plan means eventual troop reductions in Europe and further cuts in the Far East.

"None of these things are going to happen real quick," Wilson said. "We are going to take these things step-by-step depending on the situation that has to be met."

Mrs. John Reasons Dies at Eldorado

Mrs. John H. Reasons, 71, resident of Eldorado, died at 4:45 p. m. yesterday at the Ferrell hospital.

She is survived by her husband, John H., two children, Mrs. Velma Moss and Ralph Reasons, both of Eldorado, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Annis Turner, Mrs. Ruby Rodgers, Otis A. Carter, Miss Pet Carter, Elwood Carter, Elmon Carter, all of Eldorado, and Mrs. Herman Turner, Mexia, Tex. She is also survived by two grandchildren.

The funeral will be Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the Eldorado Church of Christ where she was a member. Burial will be in Wolf Creek cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the Eldorado funeral home until time for the funeral.

Fire Burns Several Acres Near Mine

Several acres of land in the area of Sahara No. 16 mine three and a half miles west of Harrisburg burned over as Sahara employees and the city fire department fought the blaze.

The fire was on land owned by the coal company and Mrs. Otto Miller. Last night at 10:30 the fire department made a run to the Burgess garage at 626 North Main street, where rubbish was blazing at the rear of the premises. There was no damage.

Land Owners Ask Damages

Two owners of land in Section 7 of Carrier Mills township have filed a complaint against the Blue Bird Coal Corp. and the Delta Coaleries Corp., seeking judgments on the contention that gob pile impurities have washed onto their lands and damaged the soil.

The complaint was filed for C. C. Fenwick and Zula B. Davis by Atty. Arlie O. Boswell. Fenwick asks $16,000, Mrs. Davis seeks $8,000.

Estimates Illinois Has Passed Nine Million Mark in Population

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—The population of Illinois probably has topped the nine-million mark, a sociologist estimated today.

Mass Resignations Hit Illinois Guard in Protest Over Merger

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—National Guardsmen from generals to privates announced or threatened resignations today in protest over the merger of two divisions.

Guardsmen hurled charges of "politics" as they announced their opposition to Gov. William Stratton's order to merge the Illinois 33rd and 44th divisions.

In effect, the move would eliminate the 44th Division, composed of guardsmen living outside Chicago. This division would be absorbed by the 33rd, now concentrated in the Chicago area.

Stratton said the move would save at least three million dollars in two years.

Brig. Gen. Paul K. MacDonald, Homer, Ill., said he had sent in his resignation to Stratton in protest over the change, even though he was to have been assistant commander of the new 33rd Division.

MacDonald charged "political" considerations governed Stratton's guard policies and called the merger "ill-advised."

Maj. Gen. Harry L. Bolen, Cairo, Ill., commander of the 44th had already resigned following announcement of Stratton's plan.

The two were joined by Lt. Col. Richard T. Dunn of Bloomington, Ill., commander of the 114th anti-aircraft battalion.

In announcing his resignation, Dunn said he didn't feel "bound" to a program "under the control of persons who do not understand or appreciate the many years of effort which had gone into building a strong National Guard."

Maj. Gen. George F. Ferry, commander of the 33rd, condemned the change and said Stratton had not kept his agreement to consult him about any resignations.

Mass Resignations
Rank and file objections came from an 86-man guard unit at Decatur, Ill., and a 40-man unit at Champaign, Ill., which both submitted mass resignations. Units in other cities were reported ready to take the same step.

Most of the top-ranking opponents of Stratton's move united in blaming the state adjutant general, Maj. Gen. Leo M. Boyle. Ferry said Stratton's best move now would be "let it ride of Boyle."

The 44th Division is newly returned from two years of active duty. Many of its men saw action in Korea.

Townes Coomes, 59, Of Rocky Branch Community Dies
Townes Coomes, 59, who lived in the Rocky Branch community, died at 6 p. m. yesterday at the Ferrell hospital. He had been in failing health for about five years, and for the last three years had been unable to do any work. Before his illness he was a farmer and coal miner.

He is survived by his wife, Bessie, and four daughters, Mrs. Kathryn Lane, Mrs. Helen Newman, both of Eldorado, Mrs. Gladys Barton, Chicago, and Mrs. Mattie Williams, Evansville, Ind. He also is survived by two brothers, Paul Coomes, Michigan, and Clarence Coomes of Calhoun, Ky.

The body will be taken from the Bean and Tanner funeral home at 2 p. m. today to the residence where it will remain until time for the funeral.

The funeral will be Monday at 2 p. m. at the Rocky Branch church. Rev. Earl Vaughn and Rev. Norman Cozart will officiate, and burial will be in the Cottage Grove cemetery.

Woman Awarded $4,000 for Injuries From Clark Gable Auto

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Actor Clark Gable must pay $4,000 damages to Mrs. Mary Lemme, 45, for injuries she suffered in a collision with the star's auto.

The Pima County Superior Court jury returned its verdict Friday night after Mrs. Lemme, a grocer, charged Gable's convertible collided with her car near here Dec. 7.

SIU Expert Advises Development Of Dairying in Southern Illinois

Editor's Note: The following introductory article is the first in a series of five weekly articles on dairying in southern Illinois (and similar regions) based on a study by Dr. Alex Reed, dairy specialist at Southern Illinois university.

CARBONDALE, Ill.—The 16 southernmost Illinois counties are strategically located for potential milk production and marketing, but dairying does not hold as important a place in the agricultural economy of the area as it does in the state or the nation, says Dr. Alex Reed, dairy specialist at Southern Illinois university.

Reed recently completed an extensive study entitled, "Production and Utilization of Milk in Sixteen Southern Illinois Counties." Physical and climatic conditions of the area are well adapted to dairying but the enterprise has not developed as it should. The average herd size is too low, the average production per cow is not profitable, and the market potential needs developing, he says.

Counties in Survey
The scope of this article is confined to topographic and climatic conditions favoring dairying in southern Illinois. Succeeding articles will deal with: relation of dairying to the economy of the area; trends in dairying; outlets for dairy production; and recommendations for the future of dairying in the area.

The 16 counties included in Reed's study are: Alexander, Franklin, Gallatin, Hamilton, Hardin, Jackson, Johnson, Massac, Perry, Pope, Pulaski, Randolph, Saline, Union, White and Williamson. For comparative purposes he uses five-county areas in the St. Louis and Chicago milk sheds. The St. Louis group includes Bond, Clinton, Madison, St. Clair, and Washington counties. The Chicago area counties are Boone, Kane, Lake, McHenry, and Winnebago.

Temperature and rainfall, two of the most important climatic conditions having direct relationship to dairying, are favorable to economical milk production in southern Illinois, Reed points out. The average annual rainfall of 38.46 inches, usually evenly distributed, provides an abundance of forage for cattle.

Loafing-Type Barns
The rather mild winter climate in the area enables dairymen to cut down on building costs. Loafing type barns with attached milking parlors serve well in the area. Many farms already have buildings that may be converted into such barns at small cost.

An old barn at SIU, typical of many in the area, was converted to the production of Grade A milk by partitioning off two stanchions for use as a milking parlor and constructing a milk-handling room adjacent. Materials for the conversion cost $176.25. The work was done by regular farm labor. Farmers may erect pole-type loafing barns if there are no buildings for conversion. SIU erected a 52-by-78 foot pole-type, loose-housing barn in 1952 at a total cost of $3,420.73 ($2,191.82 for material and $1,228.91 for union labor). It provides loafing space for 40 cows. The estimated cost of a hay feeder adds another $1,000. Lawrence Hilton, dairy farmer south of Carbondale, built a four-cow milking parlor for $2,500. Land Is Suitable

Using these figures, Reed points out, brings the per-cow building cost for a 40-cow herd to nearly $175 on the basis of 1952 prices. In St. Louis area counties building investments have been estimated at $330 per cow on the basis of 1947 construction prices.

Added to the favorable climatic condition in the Southern area is the suitability of the topography to dairying. Half of the counties have less than 30 per cent of their surface in level land (less than two per cent slope). Perry and Gallatin counties are the only two with half or more of their area level. Hardin, the smallest, has less than 10 per cent level land. Only three-fourths of the land in the entire area may be classed as farm land and only 70 per cent of this class is crop land. Of the total crop land less than 35 per cent should be planted to inter-tilled crops. The rest should be in small grains or meadow—hay or pasture, Reed says.

The small grains may be winter oats, winter barley, winter rye, or wheat which give both winter grazing and grain for dairy cattle. A high percentage of land in meadows would mean an abundance of hay and pasture for economical milk production.

Conservation Farming Requires More Livestock

You can secure a higher-than-average income from a farm producing large amounts of roughage if you raise plenty of livestock.

During the past eight years, a group of Illinois farms with conservation programs earned an average of $6.70 more per acre each year than matched farms not having such programs. This increase was due to larger livestock sales.

E. L. Sauer, soil conservation economist at the University of Illinois, says high conservation farming resulted in higher yields. However, the total value of the grain on these farms was less because of the decreased acreage. Thirty-six per cent of the cropland was in hay and pasture, while the low-conservation farms had only 22 per cent of their cropland in forages. In a few cases the net income

More Attention On Quality of Market Hogs

An agricultural economist at the University of Illinois says hog buyers are going to pay increased attention to quality in the future. This will mean farmers producing the "meat-type" hog will receive a premium.

L. J. Norton says an industry must give the consumers what they want, whether it is producing hogs or automobiles. And consumers do not want fatty and wasty pork.

The real reason for producing meaty hogs is to produce more and better meat. Eighty-five per cent of the weight of a hog is in meat—and an even higher percentage of the value. There is some tendency to over-emphasize the importance of less lard.

Production of "meat-type" hogs will eventually mean an increased demand for the high-quality pork and increased prices. It'll mean higher profits for farmers producing them.

However, Norton says there are still several problems that need solving before quality buying can become firmly established.

The large volume of hogs marketed tends to encourage bulk-line buying. This is paying one price for hogs according to their weight regardless of quality.

There is also much concern about keeping marketing costs down. Quality buying requires extra grading and sorting that adds on to expenses.

Finally, there's the problem of education as many farmers and others do not understand just what a "meat-type" hog is. And many of them do not want discrimination for quality in hogs prices.

Corn is Good Substitute for High Priced Hay

Hay-buying farmers will be ahead to buy the best hay they can find and to use more corn when the price is right. It costs as much to haul poor hay as good hay, and good hay contains a lot more feed.

L. R. Fryman, University of Illinois dairy specialist, says you can pay five to ten dollars a ton more for high quality alfalfa than for low-quality grass hay for dairy cows.

Main thing in good hay is a high percentage of leaves. That's where the protein is, Fryman says. Green color is important too.

Corn is a good substitute for hay. If you have to pay 35 dollars for average alfalfa, you'll be ahead using some corn at $1.50 a bushel. Fryman says two pounds of corn equal about three pounds of hay. You can simply add corn to the dairy ration you're now feeding. You won't run into any trouble feeding up to 16 to 18 pounds of grain ration if your cows all have sound udders.

A 1200-pound cow will eat about 24 pounds of average hay a day. If you're feeding her ten pounds of grain, you can give her an additional eight pounds of corn. That eight pounds of corn will take the place of 12 pounds of hay. Fryman warns against saving feed by cheating dry cows.

If there is a closet door which family members persist in leaving open, you can fasten a coiled screen-door spring near the top of the door, just tightly enough to close the door without slamming, says the January issue of Successful Farming Magazine.

on the high-conservation farms was lower. Close study of the records showed they had not developed their livestock enterprises well enough to make good use of the forage they were producing. Sauer says one farmer doubled the per cent of his land in grasses and legumes, increased the total volume of his livestock almost three times and increased his net returns from $38.24 to $51.13 per acre.

Notes from Farm Adviser

By L. B. Kimmel

A meeting free to farmers interested in farm accounts, record keeping and income taxes will be held in the city hall, council room, Harrisburg, Jan. 13 from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. L. R. Kyle from the University Farm Management Service will be in charge to discuss these subjects and answer questions.

This is an educational meeting for informing farmers about these problems. Any farmer is invited to attend.

Those who attended the soils and crops school on Jan. 7 conducted by P. E. Johnson realize the importance of a complete soil test.

Maximum production of crops can only result from balanced plant food in the soil along with organic material and rainfall. Lime alone will not produce good crops if phosphate and potash are low. The only way to find out how well supplied your soil is of necessary elements is to make a complete test of the soil for lime, phosphate, and potash.

Winter Watering Of Livestock

To get top results, provide an automatic water supply for your livestock. It will cut down on your chores and keep your profits from sinking because the animals are not getting enough water.

Animals need an ample supply of fresh, clean water to produce efficiently, says Frank Andrew, agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois.

Watering once or twice a day is not enough for profitable production. A dairy cow will drink 10 to 20 times a day when water is available. A hog likes to eat and then drink.

The easiest and best way to provide an automatic water supply is to install an automatically heated drinking waterer. You can get one from your local dealer. Andrew says there are several different makes on the market, so you'll have a good selection.

Install it according to the manufacturer's directions, and be sure it is well grounded. Andrew says that practically all cases of fire or other loss with this type of equipment is caused by carelessness—not by failure of the equipment.

Winter Wheat In Illinois Totals 1.6 Million Bushels

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The Illinois winter wheat crop totals 1,631,000 acres, a 24 per cent smaller seeding than 1952, the State Crop Reporting Service has announced.

Wheat planting was cut by the government wheat acreage control program voted by farmers last summer. But the total seeding for the state was 10 per cent above average.

The crop service predicted a harvest of 31 million bushels next summer if normal conditions prevail. This compared with a 57 million bushel harvest this year and a 1942-51 average crop of 27 million bushels. Rye seeding covered 180,000 acres, compared with 90,000 acres in 1952 and an average rye seeding of 113,000 acres. The crop service said the heavy planting was due to diversion of wheat land and the drought-induced need for fall pasture.

It will pay you to add protein supplement to the grain ration of your steers on full feed on pasture as the grass dries up in late summer.

RABBIT'S DELIGHT—Barbara Fuller, 7, of Liberal, Kan., nestles close to something straight out of a bunny's dream world. It's a carrot which tips the scale at an ounce over five pounds. The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Fuller, grew the giant in their back-yard garden.

Fowl Cholera Is Increasing

Don't take chances if some of your chickens die suddenly for no apparent reason. Take them and a few sick live chickens to your veterinarian to see if they have cholera.

Dr. P. B. Barto of the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Illinois reports an unusual increase of fowl cholera in the state during the last two months.

The bacteria which cause this disease are spread in feed and water. Cholera usually attacks the respiratory tract of chickens over four months of age. It can also hit turkeys, ducks and pheasants.

Cholera may kill your birds rapidly without showing any symptoms. In less vicious form, chickens may lose their appetites, develop diarrhea, sit quietly with their necks pulled in, eyes closed, feathers ruffled and wing and tail feathers drooping. Their combs and wattles may swell. Although birds may recover from cholera, they won't return to full production and may act as disease carriers. Losses are usually reduced by treating them with sulfa drugs. Since there is no good vaccine for cholera yet, the key to its control is prevention, as in most other poultry diseases.

Keep traffic out of the ranges and poultry houses. Clean and disinfect all houses and equipment at frequent intervals. Don't buy breeding stock over three months old. Keep the birds separated into different age groups. After you have disposed of one flock, wait at least a month before bringing in new birds.

High Fertilization Is Sound Practice

Spending a little money for improved conservation practices can change crop production from a losing to a paying proposition. The increased yields will make the difference.

High yields are especially important for profit with farm prices declining and production costs remaining about the same.

E. L. Sauer, Soil Conservation Service economist at the University of Illinois, says studies have shown examples of farmers who have doubled their corn yields by adopting a soil conservation and fertility improvement program.

One farmer boosted corn yields from an average of 40 bushels an acre to an 80 bushel level. Assuming the value of land on this farm at $200 an acre, and the price of corn at $1.50 per bushel, this man was probably just breaking even on his corn with a 40-bushel per acre production.

With a production of 80 bushels, he has 40 bushels "take-home" corn. At $1.50 a bushel, this amounts to $60 an acre. That pays for his conservation and fertility improvement program costs, any additional harvesting costs, and gives him a good profit.

ADAPTED ALFALFA BEST
Adapted alfalfa adds more organic matter to the soil, reports Capper's Farmer. Wisconsin research men found that non-hardy Arizona common, after severe winter damage, produced 1,580 pounds of roots per acre in two years. Hardy Grimm alfalfa added 1,740 pounds of roots an acre in two years.

Probably the best place for cobs on dairy farms is in the bedding.

Blonde Finnish School Girl, 17, to Wed African Prince

LONDON — A blonde 17-year-old Finnish school girl will be married here today to an African prince whose father, chief of a 300,000-member tribe, has "no color prejudice."

The girl, Miss Sinitta Toivonen, also had the "blessing" of her Helsinki shopkeeper father for her wedding to Crown Prince Ankrah of the Gold Coast.

The prince and his new princess will return to their tribal state in a few months and she will become mistress of a modern, 46-room palace.

Prince Ankrah, 27, is the son of Chief Ninkpakpo Oti, head of the Orobubum tribal state on the West African seacoast.

The prince first met his bride while visiting Finland as a tourist last summer.

A SPAN OF 55 YEARS is shown in these two pictures of Mr. and Mrs. John Vinson, 233 South Granger street, Harrisburg. They are shown in the wedding picture made 55 years ago Christmas Day in 1898 and how they look after 55 years of married life. The couple was married in Harrisburg and resided for years in Dorris Heights. He was a coal miner for more than 40 years before his retirement, working principally at O'Gara 1, which was on Route 45 a short distance north of Muddy. There are three children: Charles of Dorris Heights, Ada of Harrisburg and Hazel Webb of East St. Louis. Their oldest child, Stanley, was killed while working at Peabody 47 mine five years ago. Church of God Missionary Society Meets With Mrs. Thelma Prather

Mrs. Thelma Prather was hostess Thursday evening to the Missionary society of the First Church of God. The meeting was called to order, and Mrs. Betty Clark followed with the opening prayer. Mrs. Prather, secretary-treasurer, gave her report for the preceding month.

The lesson, "The Life and Task of the Church," was given by Mrs. Gladys Aldridge. She emphasized that the church needs to be especially alert to the needs of the nation since this is a time of despair and seemingly hopelessness. She also told of the surprising lack of knowledge of the gospel in our foreign lands as was reported following a conference held in a small town in Germany.

The business session followed, presided over by the president, Miss Beulah Lievers. A nominating committee was appointed at this time to complete the ballot for the election of officers to be held at the next meeting. A letter received by Miss Lievers from one of the missionaries in British East Africa was read at this time, which emphasized the needs of the people of that country for the healing of both bodies and souls.

The worship service began with Mrs. Bee Holland reading from Philippians 4:6-7. She emphasized the need of prayer and how empty our lives would be without prayer. The devotion was given by Mrs. Hattie Smith, the title being "The Source of a Christian's Strength." She gave several scripture verses found throughout the Bible referring to the promises of God if we will but have faith. She ended her devotion with the poem, "Pray Without Ceasing." The worship service ended with prayer by Mrs. Bess Aldridge.

Announcements were made at this time and the meeting was brought to a close with prayer by Mrs. Anna Rhine.

Refreshments of chocolate cream cake, ice cream, Cokes and coffee were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Hattie Smith.

Those present included Mrs. Betty Clark, Mrs. Ethel Fisher, Mrs. Emma Hibbs, Miss Beulah Lievers, Mrs. Gladys Aldridge, Mrs. Elsie Dudley, Mrs. Anna Rhine, Mrs. Bee Holland, Mrs. Hattie Smith, Mrs. Bess Aldridge, Mrs. Marie Wilgus, Mrs. Prather and son.

Announce Marriage of Miss Nancy Lou Turner To David L. Pyles

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Turner, Route 1, Harrisburg, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Nancy Lou, to David L. Pyles, son of Mrs. Alta Pyles, Harco. The wedding took place Jan. 6 in Fernando, Miss.

The bride is a graduate of the Galatia high school in the class of 1952 and is now employed by Naulg's department store in Harco.

The couple will leave Harco Sunday Jan. 10, for California where the bridegroom is stationed at a U. S. Naval base.

Mr. and Mrs. Pyles were accompanied to Mississippi by Mrs. Juanita Nash and Mrs. Edwin Thompson of Harco.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Parker arrived home from the Furniture Market in Chicago yesterday. At Libertyville, Ill., they visited Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Abney and the W. R. Hine family. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hine will soon move to Stevens Point, Wis., where he will become home office general sales manager of Hardware Mutual Insurance company.

Mrs. Lloyd Branum, who entered Barnes hospital in St. Louis Thursday, will undergo major surgery early next week. Her room number is 2210, second floor.

Janie Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cook, 308 East McIlrath street, is recuperating at her home, following an emergency major operation at the Ferrell hospital.

Mrs. Nelle Meyers has as a guest this week end, Mrs. Wilma Slagle from Fairfield. Mrs. Slagle is a past president of the 13th district of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Miss Carolyn Wilson Installed as President of Rebekahette Theta Rhos

In a beautiful ceremony Tuesday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall Miss Carolyn Wilson and Miss Jean Keltner were installed as president and vice-president, respectively, of the Rebekahette Theta Rhos Girls Club No. 8 for the year of 1954.

Other officers installed were Miss Judy Morse, recording secretary, Miss Dorothy Winkelman, financial secretary, and Miss Barbara Dunn, treasurer.

Officers who had been previously appointed by Miss Wilson were Misses Mona Healy, chaplain; Benita Chester, marshal; Joyce Dunn, warden; Rhonda Jones, conductor; Carolyn Herron, right supporter to president; Paula Jo Holland, left supporter to president; Nancy Fulkerson, musician; Carolyn Price, first Herald; Peggy Raley, second Herald; Martha Gibbs, third Herald; Dorothy O'Neal, fourth Herald; Dorothy Stille, right supporter to vice-president; Sonja Thomas, left supporter to vice-president; Barbara Upchurch, inside guardian, and Carol Sanderson, outside guardian.

Miss Paula Jo Holland served as flag bearer.

The following twelve girls in colorful frocks served as escorts: Miss Carolyn Price, Carolyn Herron, Dorothy Winkelman, Paula Jo Holland, Mona Healy, Barbara Upchurch, Benita Chester, Martha Gibbs, Carol Sanderson, Peggy O'Neal, Sonja Thomas and Nigel Jenkins.

Miss Dorothy Fulkerson, retiring president, was presented with a lovely colonial bouquet of yellow mums from the club by Peggy Raley while Miss Joyce Dunn and Miss Rhonda Jones sang a song that was written by Mrs. Merle Guard to the tune of "Slow Boat to China."

Miss Wilson was presented a bouquet of orchid mums while the song "We're Walking Behind You" was sung by Rhonda Jones. Miss Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Dale Wilson, were present and participated in the ceremony.

Miss Joyce Dunn sang "You, You, You" to Miss Keltner who was presented a bouquet of blue mums from the club.

Mrs. Madge Johnson, past president of the Rebekah State Assembly, was the installing officer; Mrs. Sarah Suver, installing chaplain, and Miss Janice Stiff, installing marshal.

THE ANGELS FELL

by Bruno Fischer

XXII
I drove seven miles beyond Raventon to a narrow, curving, empty road. Everybody knew where Willie Shad lived; it was the showplace of the country.

I saw nobody on the way, but when I reached the house I heard voices in the distance. I walked around to the rear of the house. At the foot of the knoll was the swimming pool, now empty, and a couple of tennis courts, and a handball court. Two men were playing handball and a woman sat on a chair watching them.

At that distance I could recognize Willie Shad by his thick, hairy figure. The weather had turned cooler since morning, the sky was overcast, but all he wore were shorts and sneakers.

The woman, a fleshy blond, noticed me first and said something to him, and he stopped playing and peered at me. I'd been walking down to the court; I was close enough to see him smirking. He took off his handball gloves. Rubbing his bare chest with a towel, he came toward me.

I put my hand on the gun in my jacket pocket. The gun was very big, filling the pocket, making it sag. I waited where I was as Willie Shad plodded up to me.

"I kind of thought you'd come," he said, stretching out a hand. "How you been?"

My palm sweated on the gun; my finger itched on the trigger. "Where can we talk?" I said. He pulled back his rejected hand and used it to scratch his chest. He wasn't offended. "Plenty of room in the house," he said.

I walked at his side, but not close to him. When we mounted the concrete flagstone terrace he stopped.

"The briefcase in your car?" "I haven't got it."

He smirked and resumed walking. We entered the house through a glass door leading in from the terrace. The walls of that huge room were mostly windows from ceiling to floor except for the white brick fireplace. Every bit of furniture was blond mahogany. The floor was sky-blue plastic tile.

"What am I waiting for? You're here. I can say: Okay, pony up the briefcase and you get the kid. He means more to you than the briefcase, and more to you than shooting me. But I don't say it. Because I don't know a thing about it."

Once, three years ago, I had been in a fieldstone and stucco house on the heights of Raventon. And under an elm tree in the garden I had kissed the daughter of the house.

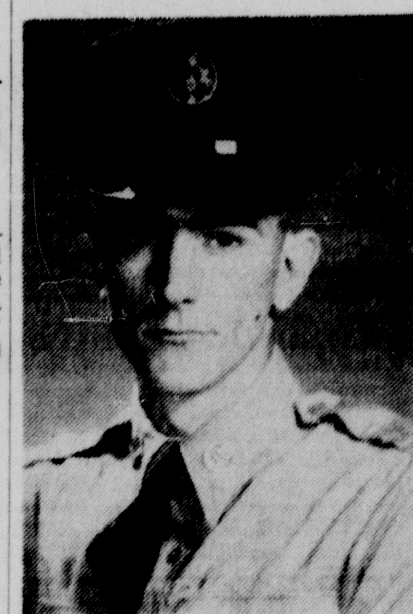

I was back to call on her with a gun in my pocket. The door was opened by Mrs. Rahn, sweet-faced and matronly. She didn't remember me, and when I said, "I'd like to see Hannah," she gave me the calculating look of a mother appraising a possible son-in-law.

"She won't be home today," Mrs. Rahn gave me a benign smile. "I don't think I know your name." "Paul Flagg."

That killed her smile. Even if her husband and her daughter hadn't told her anything about the briefcase, my name meant plenty these days in the local press. She said quickly, "Wait here, please," and left me in the hall.

In a matter of seconds Congressman Horace Rahn came out. (To Be Continued)

Key Witness in Reuther Shooting Flees from Guards

DETROIT (UP)—The key witness in the 1948 shooting of CIO President Walter Reuther has disappeared. It was learned today that he slipped away from his guards in his hotel room by turning on the shower to cover the noise of his departure.

Without him, State Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said the case against four men now in custody and accused of the assassination attempt would collapse.

The witness, a Canadian who has not been identified by police, will not come back voluntarily, according to a report which his lawyer was said to have given police.

The prosecutor's office said he participated in the attempt on Reuther's life, April 20, 1948, and named Clarence Jacobs, one of the four arrested, as the actual gunman.

Jacobs, of Tecumseh, Ont., is being held by provincial police in Windsor on a technical charge awaiting extradition to the United States.

The four accused of the Reuther shooting are Santo Sam Perrone, 58, an ex-convict with a long record of union-busting; his son-in-law, Carl Renda, 35; Jacobs; and Peter Lombardo, now serving a term in federal prison.

Bobo Accepts $5.5 Million Settlement

NEW YORK (UP)—Standard Oil heir Winthrop Rockefeller said through his attorney he was "pleased" that his estranged wife, Bobo, had accepted a $5½-million-dollar settlement in their marital dispute.

Mrs. Rockefeller agreed to accept the trust funds and cash bequest, Friday shortly before a "deadline" imposed by Rockefeller's attorneys. Earlier, her husband had complained she was holding out for a 10-million-dollar settlement.

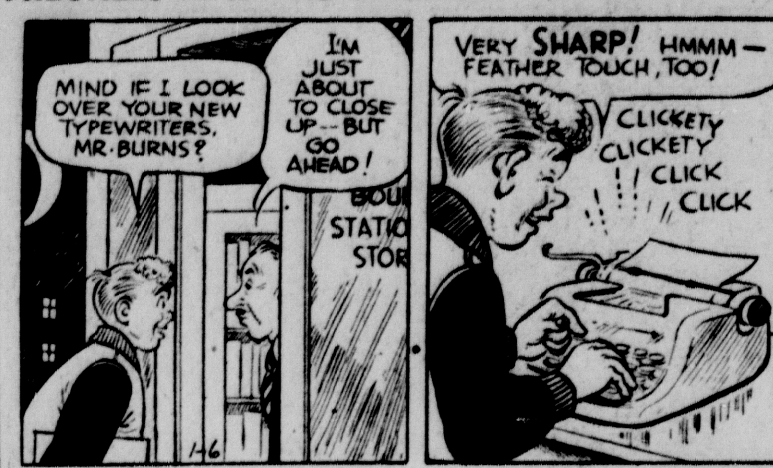

A statement issued by Rockefeller's New York attorney, Edwin E. Dunaway, said lawyers for both sides would meet soon to "effectuate the agreement."

The financial settlement is expected to lead to filing of a divorce suit by Rockefeller in Arkansas, where he recently established residence.

Bobo, an immigrant coal miner's daughter, will get 5½ million dollars in cash and trust funds for herself and their 5-year-old son, Winthrop Paul, plus either a $70,000-a-year income or an additional trust fund of $500,000.

The exact time that an electric charge hovers over one or another of the atoms in a molecule now has been calculated and reported.

University of Missouri President Resigns

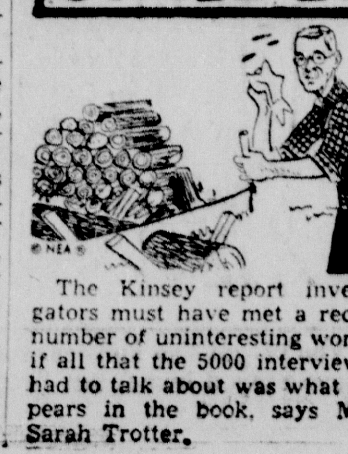

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, 63, resigned Friday night as president of the University of Missouri, a post he held for 18 years.

Middlebush submitted his resignation at a meeting of the board of curators. He said he was stepping down because his doctor had advised him to curtail his activities.

The board accepted the resignation, effective June 30.

 Horning pointed to the hours of work members of the water board put in going around the country working up the options, and the hours spent by the council and water board in trying to work out what is best for the city.

"Every action is above board," he stated. "If anybody will show me where a handout has been made, I'll drop this whole Lake Harrisburg action right now."

He pointed out that right now the city is going to have to spend around $12,000 to bring water into Harrisburg as an emergency measure because of the inadequate water system the city has.

Lonnie Norris appeared and asked about the feasibility of getting a permanent supply of water from Blue Hole, that he had heard it could be bought and water piped for around $50,000.

Eagles Edge McLeansboro's Foxes, 53 to 51

Two evenly matched cage clubs, Eldorado and McLeansboro, battled right down to the final horn last night before Eldorado copped the victory, 53-51. The game was played at Eldorado.

Both teams were hitting at a good clip with McRoy of Eldorado proving to be the game's leading sharpshooter, hitting for 11 field goals. Millenbine of McLeansboro was just back with nine fielders and two free tosses.

Eldorado broke the scoring ice on two free throws by Mackovjak, then McLeansboro came up with five points before the Eagles could score again. At the end of the first quarter the visiting Foxes held a 16-12 advantage.

The Eagles then began to slowly hack away at this lead and had reduced it one point by half time, 27-24.

In the third frame Eldorado outscored the visitors 15-12 and the count was knotted 39-39 as the final period got underway.

Lee opened the fourth quarter scoring with a free toss to put the Foxes in the lead 40-39, then McRoy, Whittier and McRoy again, hit from the field and Eldorado had a 45-40 advantage. However, McLeansboro was still very much in the game and with the final seconds ticking away the Foxes trailed only 50-49.

Large Crowd
Cochran then hit on two free throw efforts for the Eagles, Millenbine scored from the field for the Foxes and Cochran scored another free toss as time ran out with Eldorado holding a 53-51 edge.

The largest crowd to witness a game in Eldorado this year and maybe in any year was on hand last night. People were being turned away before half time of the preliminary game.

The Eagles, who are coming along fast, defeated the Little Foxes in the preliminary game, 48-39. Eldorado travels to Carbondale Tuesday to meet the Attackers team.

41,500 Geese Killed at Horseshoe Lake This Season

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Sportsmen killed 41,500 Canada geese in the Horseshoe Lake Wildlife Refuge during the 1953 waterfowl season, it was estimated today.

The State Conservation Department said the estimate was based on figures compiled by state and federal biologists. Of the total, the department said 32,440 were killed by hunters who used the 206 Alexander County licensed clubs and 9,110 were crippled and unlisted kills.

The department said 1,204 of the geese killed were harvested by hunters using the public hunting area near the lake, which was operated 43 of the 55 days during the season.

Conservation Director Glen Palmer said the public hunting area, operated on an experimental basis, "apparently has proved eminently successful."

Galatia Trips Rosiclare, 76-56, in Loop Tilt; Brookport, Cave Win

Galatia and Brookport continued to pace the Greater Egyptian conference race, as all eight teams saw action last night following the holiday season lay-off. Vienna and Cave-in-Rock were other victors.

Bob Farris' Bearcats, unbeaten in conference play, tagged Rosiclare, 76-56, while Brookport edged Shawneetown, 50-47, on the Indians' court. Ridgway battled Cave down to the wire, only to lose 63-59, and Vienna showed surprising strength in romping to a 67-54 decision over Pope County.

Big Joe Upchurch and Bob Orto once again paced Galatia in victory. Upchurch collected 27 points and Orto 24. Rosiclare led at the end of the first quarter, 16-13, but a 27-point scoring spree gave the Bearcats a 40-23 margin at the half.

Rosiclare pulled back into the fray during the third, chipping the Bearcats' lead to 55-48 at the end of the third. The Farris men then went on another rampage in the fourth to build up their 20-point victory margin.

Ridgway Loses Early Lead
Brookport and Shawneetown gave Gallatin county fans a real display of basketball. The score remained close throughout the fracas with the Indians leading in the early part of the tussle. Brookport managed to cling to their slim lead in the late minutes and check every effort by Shawneetown.

Ridgway stayed with Cave-in-Rock through the first half but faded in the third period. Trailing only 15-13 at the quarter and 26-23 at the intermission, the Eagles fell apart in the third to drop behind, 43-34. At one time they were down 14 points. A fourth quarter rally brought Al Penman's fighting five within four points of the invaders before the final buzzer sounded.

Vienna took an early 21-15 lead over Pope County and then saw the tall Pirates race to a 36-32, half-time edge. Coach Glen Jones' boys fashioned an uprising of their own in the third and regained the lead. They held a 51-24 advantage going into the fourth and finished strong to win, 67-54.

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The largest daily double of the new 1954 racing season was produced at the Fair Grounds Friday when Twenty Two won the first race at $132.20 and Black Charger captured the second at $98.40 to make up a $1,338.60 pay-off.

A parlay on the two long shots would have returned $6,504.20.

Orphans Run Roughshod Over Bull Dogs, 117-39; Marion Here Tonight

The Centralia Orphans ran roughshod over the inexperienced Bull Dogs, 117 to 39, in a South Seven conference basketball game played last night at Centralia.

Tonight the Marion Wildcats, smarting over a one-point defeat at the hands of Benton last night, came to Harrisburg for another loop tilt. Marion won handily over the locals the last time out.

Perhaps a conference record was set last night as Centralia rang up 117 points, topping the scoring with 33 points the first quarter and 36 the final frame.

Bobby Joe Mason, the spindly junior, was the big gun for the Orphans all night as he led his teammates in floor play and scoring. Bob accumulated 27 points. The Bull Dogs showed very little defense and the Orphans fast-broke the locals to death. The Orphans also used a pressing defense to very good advantage, pressing the daylight out of the Bull Dogs, and as a result the locals made numerous bad passes.

Bull Pups Lose, 86-39
It was just a case of a very good ball club at its best playing against some inexperienced boys.

Centralia led 33-12 at the quarter, 52-24 at the half and 81-29 at the end of the third quarter. The Bull Pups were thumped, too, to the tune of 86 to 39. The Orphan frosh-soph outfit led 22-8 at the quarter, 39-23 at halftime, and 65-20 at the end of the third quarter.

Charles Wright was high scorer with 10 points. Bill Henshaw had 9, Joe Lee Dorris 4, Bennie Fulkerson 5, Stone 2, Don McGowan.

Joppa Defeats Equality, 55-51

Joppa's hardwood crew gained revenge for their Equality Invitational tournament loss last night, defeating the invading Equality Cardinals, 55-51, in a hard fought contest.

Equality took a 16-15 lead after eight minutes of play but fell behind in the second period to trail 27-23 at halftime. Joppa led 37-30 going into the final canto. The Cards rallied but were unable to overtake their hosts.

Ken Wooley played only one half, and Equality's other tall cager, Crayne, fouled out of the scrap during the second period. Three players were lost to each squad via the personal foul route.

Equality won the pre-lim, 64-24. EQUALITY — Crayne 2, Kaufman 6, Wargel 7, Woods 4, Wooley 8, Barnett 18, Butler 6. JOPPA — Mathis 17, Black 2, Cockret 5, King 2, Krappner 4, Johnson 2, Summers 23.

Giardello TKOs Garth Panter In Fifth Round

NEW YORK (UP)—Eager Joey Giardello proclaimed himself the logical challenger for Bobo Olson's middleweight crown today, "because I knocked out Garth Panter, and Olson couldn't."

Giardello of Philadelphia, third-ranking contender, scored a technical kayo over rugged Panter of Salt Lake City at 1:16 of the fifth round in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

It was the first time Panter had been stopped in his career of 67 professional bouts.

Brown-haired Joey and Co-Managers Carmine Graziano and Anthony Ferrante announced today they would make an official challenge on Monday by posting a $2,500 challenger's check with the New York Boxing Commission.

Giardello, 23, said, "I can beat Olson. I can out-box him and I can out-punch him. Remember Olson was lucky to get a split decision against Panter."

Turpin Top Contender
Hawaiian-born Olson of San Francisco outpointed Panter, 23, at Butter, Mont., last March 16. In Olson's next two bouts he won the American championship on a decision over Paddy Young and the vacant world title on a decision over Randy Turpin of England.

Turpin is still ranked as top contender. Rocky Castellani of Cleveland is second, and Giardello, third. Castellani already has a challenger's check posted with the New York commission.

Giardello, favored at 4-1, appeared destined for a hard fight when he suddenly stunned Panter with a combination left hook and straight right to the chin in the fifth round. He landed four more right smashes to the chin and had his reeling opponent against the ropes when Referee Al Berl stopped the bout. It was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Coon Dog Field Trial Near Benton

Coon dog field trial fans from throughout southern Illinois and surrounding states will gather at Wildwood, north of Benton on Route 37, near the turkey farm, Sunday to compete for an estimated $750.00 purse at the running of Southern Illinois Wildlife Association's "Snow Ball Derby." Local and out-of-state entries will work through a series of elimination heats and semi-finals to compete for an estimated $500.00 final purse.

Grounds for the winter trial are located one mile north of Benton at the former Wildwood, and a distinct advantage to spectators and entrants are the inside lunch stand and auctioning of dogs, affording protection from cold weather.

Proceeds from the trial will be used to propagate wildlife in the area covered by the club and for association activities. A large turnout is expected from local sports-minded fans who will witness the excitement of top dogs competing for the prize money.

Dorrisville Beats Carrier Mills, 35-23

Playing on near-even terms throughout three quarters, Dorrisville's grade school five surged forth in the final period yesterday to defeat Carrier Mills, 35-23.

Harris banged in nine points in the last eight minutes to spark the Dorrisville drive. Carrier Mills led 7-2 at the quarter but the score was deadlocked 12-12 at the intermission. Dorrisville held a 23-19 advantage entering the fourth.

Quincy Hands Peoria Woodruff Its First Loss; Benton Defeats Marion, 54-53

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Quincy handed Peoria Woodruff its first defeat of the season Friday as a busy night of Illinois prep basketball saw top-ranked Peoria Central, Collinsville and Marion also absorb losses.

Quincy eked out a 52-48 decision over Woodruff's Warriors for its ninth win in 10 starts. Woodruff was the last major downstate high school team to remain undefeated.

Quincy has a second stiff weekend test tonight, entertaining Edwardsville on the Quincy court.

Centralia ran up an amazing 117 points to 39 for Harrisburg in a South Seven conference game. The victory gave the Orphans, fourth-ranked club in Illinois by the United Press Board of Coaches, a 9-3 won-lost record.

Pinckneyville Wins
A hard-fighting Benton team hung another defeat on the skidding Marion Wildcats, 54-53. It left Marion with an 8-6 record.

In other action involving members of the state's top 15 teams, No. 2 Moline toyed with Galesburg 55-42. Third-ranked Mount Vernon mastered West Frankfort, 78-49. Pinckneyville, holding No. 5, topped Chester 63-55.

La Grange, top-rated among Illinois prep cage quintets, rolled by Hinsdale 76-33.

The East St. Louis Flyers made it eight in a row since losing their first two games by spanking Herrin 65-52. Chicago Heights Bloom boosted its stock with a 52-43 win over Kankakee.

Once-beaten Palestine permitted Oblong to score only 15 points while it was scoring 46. Oblong's highest scoring quarter was the fourth, in which it got five points. Peoria Manual, which had piled up a mediocre 3-3 mark, registered one of the night's biggest upsets by trimming Peoria Central 50-41 in a Big 12 conference game. Central, eighth-rated in the state, had won seven and lost only to Quincy.

Thompsonville Wins Ninth Conference Victory, 85 to 76

Thompsonville, undefeated in Little Egyptian conference play, copped league win number nine last night at Woodlawn, 85-76.

The winners' coach, Bob Munday, used reserves throughout the last period and Woodlawn came up with a 32-point period to make the game fairly even. Thompsonville had a big third period, hitting the nets for a total of 35 points.

Thompsonville trailed at the quarter, 16-15, but had pulled in front at half time, 32-28. At the end of three quarters of play Thompsonville was on top, 67-44.

In the preliminary game Woodlawn was the winner, 74-62 in overtime.

Scoring in the main go: Thompsonville—Logsdon 20, Hodgson 10, Schwabe 12, B. Isaacs 10, Lemmon 14, Simpson 11, Doss 5, Marsh 3, Snyder, Carlisle, Rotramel and P. Isaacs saw action but did not score.

Woodlawn—Corners 31, Burnes 16, Burns 10, R. Sides 4, A. Sides 1, Lawhorn 5 and Metford 9.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
The supreme theme of the Gospel of John is the divinity of Jesus, as set forth in the prologue of the Gospel in John 1:1-14.

But the Gospel of John in many incidents and phases emphasizes the humanity of Jesus as well.
Jesus Himself stressed this.
In contrast with John the Baptist, whom He declared to be the greatest of men born of woman, but who came neither eating nor drinking (Matthew 11:18-19), Jesus described Himself as both eating and drinking, a normal human being who hungered and thirsted, became weary and slept.

The divinity of Jesus was not the denial of His humanity, but was the Incarnation, divinity being revealed in and through His human life.

The story of the marriage in Cana of Galilee (John 2:1-11) is an incident in the blending of humanity and divine power. While some will concentrate attention upon the miracle, others will find the chief interest in the fact that Jesus was there.

The miracle of the changing of the water into wine takes its place among all the miracles, which if they could be explained would not be miracles at all. But the fact that Jesus was there as a guest, with His disciples, stands out with bold significance.

One could hardly have imagined
John the Baptist present at such a time or place. And if he had been there, it would probably have been to preach a sermon of warning and doom.

Jesus could express stern rebuke against the evil that He observed, as anyone who reads Matthew 23
can see, but at that wedding feast
He was evidently a guest in the spirit of the occasion.

There are other incidents that reveal Him in His true humanity, friendly and unconventional, as in the meeting with the Samaritan woman (John 4).

We must see Jesus in all the manifold aspects of that amazing earthly life if we would know and understand Him and follow His example in the earnestness of one who said, "I must be about My Father's business."

We must understand the exacting nature of taking up the cross and following Him, but we must never lose the human touch, the gentleness of the Master who blessed little children and rejoiced with those who rejoiced, wept with those who wept.

To know Jesus in all the richness and beauty of His life, to be in any degree like Him, to share in any measure His mission and purpose and to know the meaning of the Gospel—surely this is the greatest venture and achievement that life can command.

It ought to be, for it is the gift of God to men.

"God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."
